Brookline High School

Brookline, Massachusetts

INTRODUCTION

"Here's to dear old Boston,"
The land of the cod and the bean,
Known for weather, the Braves and the Red Sox-
All part of the local scene.

One day there came to Brookline
A man and a woman quite quaint,
They called themselves "Proper Bostonians,"
And carried themselves with restraint.

They wanted a view of the high school,
So, taking their hats and umbrella,
They visited seniors and home rooms-
We led them from roof top to cellar.

So please come along with us, Readers,
And with our "Bostonians", too.
We'll take you along on the special tour
Our staff has compiled just for you.

DEDICATION

To you, Mrs. Ginty, in tribute to the ideals and standards which you have established for us to follow, we lovingly dedicate our yearbook. This yearbook is a culmination of all of our lives up to this point; yet this tribute is only final in that it is locked on the page by the printer's ink. All the encouragement, counsel, and friendship which you have given to us are not confined within the walls of BHS, and cannot end with our graduation. You have given us the tools with which to mold our lives, and by virtue of these tools you have carved a permanent place for yourself in each of five hundred hearts. By dedicating the MURIVIAN to you, we are symbolizing a dedication of human lives and ambitions, a living, vibrant dream which cannot fulfill itself in the present, but must serve as a promise for the future.

Murivian Editorial Staff

One can easily see, on wandering into Room 121 any day after school, from September to May, how a prize winning yearbook is produced. For the past eight years, the Editorial Staff of the MURIVIAN has produced a first place yearbook. Slowly but surely, the copy, literary, art, and photography divisions assemble their material. Thus the busy Murivianites combine their efforts to produce the annual yearbook. By working together as a cooperative enterprise, the staff is able to put out this famed book. The effort that is demonstrated in the compiling of the MURIVIAN makes the staff appreciate more fully the importance of their positions. When the book is finally finished and the last statistic has been compiled, the last draft corrected, the last layout designed, and the last photograph developed, everyone from the Editor-in-Chief, down to the last junior apprentice, can truly look back and say, "It's a good job well done."

Murivian Business Staff

As the "Proper Bostonian" was strolling along the third floor corridor one afternoon, he heard the clamor of voices along with the jingling sound of money. He peeked into the noisy room, and was astonished to see many girls handling piles of money to two managers and a teacher, whom he recognized as Mr. Bates. Mr. Bostonian asked one of the girls just what it was all about. "You mean that you don't know about the MURIVIAN!" she exclaimed. Of course he knew about the MURIVIAN. As a matter of fact he had just reserved a copy of the 1952 edition. The girl explained that his dollar down-payment was among the thousands of dollars that he had just been looking at. This money would go toward publishing a wonderful yearbook. Very much impressed, he thanked the girl and ran off to tell his friends to hurry and reserve their copies of the MURIVIAN.

School Committee

The School Committee, which dedicates itself to the betterment of education in the Brookline Public Schools, gives us innovations which help to keep BHS among the top secondary schools in the country. They were the power behind the North Wing, which has benefited every student in innumerable ways. This year they have sanctioned, among other things, an auto-driver course which has already proved itself to be a great success. By maintaining high standards and faith in the ability of youth, the School Committee has given us a stimulus for which we are grateful.

FACULTY

DR. ANDRÉE

The process of education is a many-sided one, and its ultimate goal is brought nearer when the student is aided by guidance, sympathy, and encouragement. To tend a flock of two thousand boys and girls in the pastures of education is a colossal undertaking, but Dr. Andrée has made evident the fact that this can be accomplished, and more than that, a bond of mature respect and affection can be planted. We, the senior class of Brookline High School, will reap the benefits of the friendship and support our principal has shared with us throughout our lives, and the memories of "Doc Andrée" will always bring a nostalgic smile.

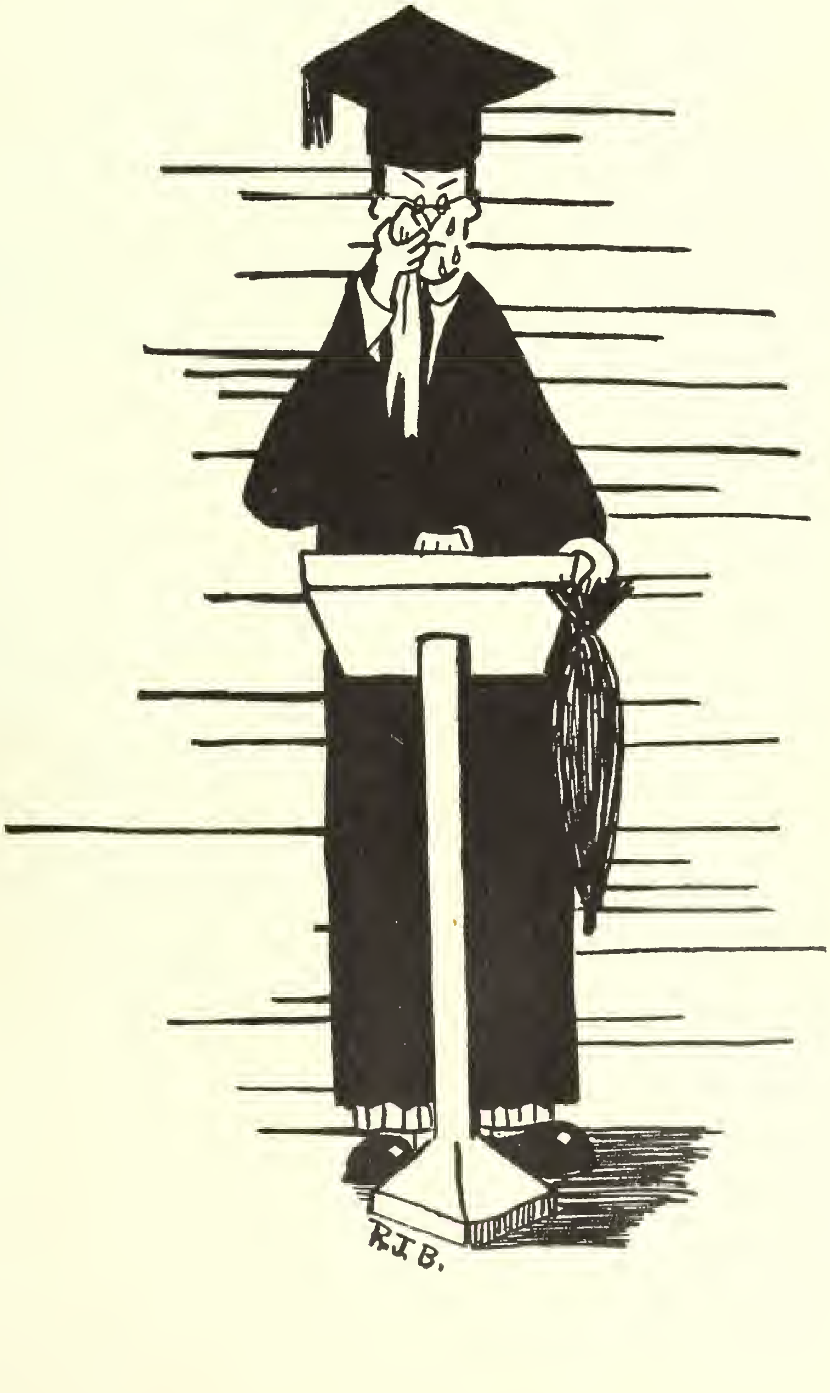
SENIORS



To The Wide, Wide World:

We, the undersigned, feel that we are well qualified to write a letter of recommendation for Roberts House, the class to be graduated from Brookline High School in June, 1952. We have known and worked closely with this House for four years and have observed its members develop from boys and girls to young men and women. We have marked not only their physical growth, but their growth in character, in mind, and in social grace.

To you, dear world, we now present a class which has had capable, intelligent student leadership, and whose members have learned to work together for the common good, thus sublimating personal feelings into the benefit of the whole group. It is our hope that the experiences of living brotherhood, practised for four years, may be carried over by these individuals into their futures in order to promote better human relations throughout their lifetimes.

Roberts House will long be remembered for many fine characteristics. We shall recall the friendly attitude, the records of scholarship, the athletic achievments, and the memorable social events, all coordinated by a real and sincere school spirit.

Now the time has come when this class must leave us to go on to greater challenges. We anticipate that these young men and women will become valued members of society and will continue to have faith in God, faith in themselves, and faith in their fellowmen.

We recommend Roberts House to you because we thoroughly like these young men and women. We entrust them to your care. We wish them health, happiness, and worthy achievement in a peaceful world.

Sincerely yours,

Katharine Ginty

Alpha Pi

The words, Alpha Pi, in Brookline High School are directly connected with the Greek language. They are derived from the Greek words meaning excellence and leadership. It is only by the acquisition of good marks and active participation in the extra-curricular program of BHS that one may become a member of this select group.

A total of eight points is required for admission at the end of the junior year or at the beginning of the senior year, while ten are required at the end of the senior year. New members are admitted either in the second semester of their junior year or first semester of their senior year. They are initiated at an impressive ceremony, at which time they are presented with their gold emblem, the symbol of the society. The two persons having the highest number of points become president and secretary of the society.

Court of Justice

Tap!—Tap! "The Court will come to order!" This sentence has started the legal proceedings at many of the sessions of BHS's own hall of justice. The Court of Justice is the only one of its kind in the state. The purpose of the body is to protect the dignity of the school and its students by cracking down on those pupils who disobey school rules. The main idea of the court is to provide discipline for the students outside of the jurisdiction of the classroom.

The Court of Justice is conducted in an official manner, with a chief justice, clerk of the court, and a sergeant-at-arms. The captain of the marshals acts as the chief prosecutor. The defendant may be represented by anyone of his choosing. The court has a jury which is composed of representatives appointed by the School Council from the three upper houses.

The fact that Chief Justice Beryl Cohen has had to call a minimum of sessions this year, is a tribute to the students of BHS.

Government can be fun

School Council

The purpose of the thriving BHS School Council, representative of all four houses, is to regulate the activities and affairs of BHS in accordance with the charter granted to it.

The School Council has to its credit, the initiation of a Drivers' Training Course in the school; the beginnings of a fine intra-mural sports program, including basketball and baseball; a successful all school Harvest Record Hop in October; and actual foundations for a cooperative store and a student lounge.

Each year the School Council participates in a student government exchange with another school. This year the Council played host to twelve students from Schenectady, New York.

The School Council gives those interested in government a wonderful opportunity to display their talents in this field.

Marshal Force

You're lost in the corridors of BHS! You can't find your next class! You're going to be late! ! "What's the thing to do? Ask a marshal. Giving directions is just one of the many duties of a marshal.

Every student at BHS, some time during his high school career, has heard the phrase, "Around the marshal!" This illustrates the Marshal Force's most important job—directing traffic in the corridors. Marshals stand at staircases and other points where there might be congestion.

It would probably take a cleaning force equivalent to the one at Fenway Park if the Marshal Force did not supervise the lunchroom and guard against offenders who throw paper on the floor and leave dishes on the tables.

As a group, the Marshal Force has done a wonderful job in proving that the students of BHS are capable of governing themselves.

Aero Club

"I attribute all my aeronautical success," said Space Cadet Dexter Dodge, in an exclusive interview with a reporter from the Inter-Planetary News Service, "to my training as the president of the BHS Aero Club. Back in 1951, the Aero Club provided a chance for boys interested in aeronautics to further their knowledge of flying. Even though we didn't have streamlined jet planes, we were able to construct accurate models of the period. I have often felt that the model building and flying contests I entered, provided me with the basic knowledge that later enabled me to fly from Pluto to Earth in ten minutes. Our annual trip to Revere airport, and the lectures and movies we had in the Aero Club were truly beneficial. Yes, I'd say that the Aero Club is a wonderful organization—and you can quote me on that!"

Art Club

If you like the feeling of gushy finger paints smeared over your hands, the sight of sooty charcoal garnishing your face, and the poetry of beautiful paintings and ceramics, join the art club. As a member, you would become familiar with art techniques and objectives by working with such mediums as paper maché, charcoal, water colors, and finger paints; all this, flavored with the spice of visits to art museums and lectures by guest speakers. Not the least bit affected by "cultural snobbishness," every year the Art Club sponsors a school wide art contest where aspiring Rembrandts compete for awards, and hopeful Michelangelos compete for prizes. This wonderful combination of viewing great masterpieces and dabbling with a paint brush themselves, makes Art Club members proud to belong to one of the school's most active organizations.

Band

What's the newest sensation at BHS? Who makes the stands burst into song? Who plays at the football, basketball, and hockey games? We mean the BHS band, an organization of about sixty-five members led by Lowell Schwartz and Mr. Corley. Besides giving an annual Winter Concert, the band plays at the State and New England Music Festivals. Those snappy red and blue uniforms appear at other schools, when the band gives out-of-town concerts. Here at home, the band often plays at civic celebrations. This organization functions to provide enjoyment for all interested students through training and worthwhile musical experiences. As they march down the field, let's give a cheer for the Brookline Band!

The time: Tuesday morning at 10:10.

The place: Room 212.

The mood: Mad confusion.

The characters: traffic directors, Harriet Braen and Dot Berger, and seemingly hundreds of busy messengers.

The issue: Can you use any money today? Or perhaps a better question would be, "Have you saved any money today?" If the characters in our presentation have anything to say about it, you will have. They're the members of the BHS bank staff, and under the direction of Mr. Hurd, they put on a smooth show in economy every two weeks. Their production's success is graphed in each homeroom to encourage competition and show BHS students what dramatic results can be achieved by banking with our stars, the BHS bank staff.

Franklin Park Zoo, Arnold Arboretum, and the Aquarium are not, contrary to popular opinion, the only places that BHS students can obtain a first hand knowledge of the wonders of nature. The Biology Club offers its membership to all interested students. Under the supervision of Mr. Keene, the group delves into the intricacies of the world about us. Amidst the fauna and flora, stuffed specimens, and rambling rodents of the North Wing, the Biology Club carries on its many activities. Participation in the Annual Science Fair and trips to various spots of interest provide a stimulus for enthusiasm in the activities of the organization. The bake-out annually winds up the projects and plans for another successful year of the Biology Club.

"Click, clock, watch the birdie, cheese please!" "What sort of new language is this?" Mr. Bostonian asked himself. "What unknown part of BHS have I stumbled into?" Well, Mr. B., it's the "Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Shutterbugs," with headquarters located in the specially outfitted photography lab on the North Wing. The members of the society meet once a week on Thursdays to print and develop pictures, and learn about the camera world. One of the special features of this club is the Annual School-wide Photography Contest with cash prizes. For members interested in taking scenic pictures, special field trips are taken to various parts of Brookline. One doesn't have to be professional to belong to the Camera Club, just be an avid amateur like the rest of us camera fiends.

Central Treasury

Want ice cream for a club meeting? Need to pay for a speaker for a special gathering? What's the thing to do? Why, any intelligent club treasurer could give you the answer. Make a bee-line for the Central Treasury, of course. Located in Mr. Ehnes' office, the Central Treasury functions effectively as one of the most obscure, but most important organizations in the high school. Four or five teachers work as assistant treasurers with Mr. Ehnes and the students. Here, the various houses keep their financial records, deposits, and withdrawal funds. Here, extra-curricular activities straighten out money matters. All in all, sixty-seven organizations are served by the efficient and effective Central Treasury.

Chemistry Club

Object: Solving the mysteries surrounding man's life by delving into chemistry.

Materials and apparatus: Room 332, Miss Campbell, about 100 students, motion pictures, experiments, food.

Procedure: Go to Room 332 after school for a meeting of the Chemistry Club. Observe closely the manner in which members of the club perform experiments. For a practical aspect, join the club's visits to local industrial concerns and discern chemicals being refined and processed. See motion pictures and perceive how they emphasize new chemical discoveries. Hear and watch members who have entries in the chemistry division of the Science Fair explain their exhibits. Use the available chemistry labs and see for yourself the magic of research. Plow through the piles of test tubes, Bunsen burners, and other equipment.

Results: Thanks to the knowledge of Miss Campbell, an insight into the fascinating world of chemistry is offered.

Conclusion: A wonderful society.

Chess Club

The war was on—furiously the two sides battled. They were fairly evenly matched but one could see that the Reds were becoming the more powerful of the two. No—it's not a Communist attack—just two members of the Chess Club having a friendly match. Red and White refer to the colors of the chessmen.

Each year the BHS chess team wages outside, as well as intra-mural matches. The BHS chessmen have come out on top of the Greater Boston Chess League in five out of the last nine years. They have topped such rivals as Boston English High, Boston Latin School, Milton High, Cambridge High and Latin, and Roxbury Latin School.

The battle came to a sudden end, not by an atomic blast, but with the triumphant cry of "checkmate!" The defeated king was left cornered and crestfallen—another victory for BHS's chess team.

Choral Society

"Do, re, mi . . ." Strange as this sounded to Mrs. Bostonian, the preceding does not signify the organization of a strange new language club at BHS. Upon inquiry, she discovered that these sounds and other vibrant tones may be heard eminating from Room 338 every Wednesday afternoon of the year. The Choral Society, composed of over eighty members, provides an outlet for those interested in singing together, and participating in group harmony. Members of the Choral Society raise their lilting voices in song at all of our holiday assemblies. Primarily a social group, under the direction of Mr. Joslyn the Choral Society plays an important part in the improvement of BHS functions and special events.

Debating Society

From Demosthenes and Cicero to the timid freshman at his first debate, The Debating Society can offer stimulation, interesting programs, and an outlet for all oratorical abilities. During the year, neighboring teams match their prowess against Brookline High debaters. The record against these teams has leaned heavily on the win column for our debaters. For those who are learning to debate, these are the intra-mural debates at the society meetings, where the prospective orators have a chance to discuss pertinent school topics. A Tournament is scheduled annually for all members. Here, those of equal experience have a chance to compete. The Debating Society trains its members to think logically, to speak intelligently and coherently, and to rebuttal skillfully either side of the question. Under the guidance of Miss Folsom, the Debating Society is striving to produce the orators of tomorrow.

Dramatic Society

The Dramatic Society is an unusual organization, which not only furthers the dramatic training of hopeful thespians, but also brings entertainment and behind-the-scene work to its not-so talented members. Under the direction of Miss Folsom, the play Quality Street was dramatized for everyone's enjoyment. Behind this play were the various committees of the society. "Another opening, another show—and it's going to be the best yet," is the motto of this society. The success of Quality Street attests to this slogan's effectiveness. The closing of its yearly play does not mean the end of the Dramatic Society's work. Monthly meetings introduce both impromptu student dramas and distinguished personalities. Movies also educate and entertain the large membership. Everyone who wishes to become part of an ambitious, active, theatrical group, should make tracks for room 300 pronto.

Has the tempting odor of cookies, cakes or other delicacies ever drifted past your nostrils as you walked by Room 205? If so, you already know that one of the things the F. H. A. does is to promote the understanding and enjoyment of the principles and fundamentals of homemaking. From September through June, the Future Homemakers of America had a very busy schedule. Under Miss South's direction the members had picnics, visited a candy factory, and gave a tea for its members, their parents, and the faculty of BHS. In addition to making a Christmas Festival Box, they gave a party, sponsored a very successful cake sale, and supplied refreshments at BHS's own Pop's Concert. This active, useful organization certainly is a determining factor in molding the background of the Future Homemakers of America.

Venez au Cercle Français, tout le monde, pour un temps merveilleux. Excuse me, I guess I got carried away at the French Club meeting. It's amazing, everyone speaks French, from the officers right down to the members. That must be the reason that only second, third, and fourth year students with an average of "B" or better may become members. Each program is both interesting and educational. French plays are presented, French songs are sung, and French games are played at the meetings. Often movies are shown, or guest speakers talk about some phase of French life. "Einz, zwei, drei," repeated Mr. Bostonian as he watched a flustered freshman vainly attempt to complete his first German assignment in BHS. Little did he expect at the time that the freshman's goal, after he had learned the basic rudiments of this language, was a new world to be opened to him in the form of the German Club. To this freshman and to others who have been exposed to the fascination of German, the German Club offers many advantages. The purpose of the organization is to further interests in the language, culture, and traditions of the "Father Land". The annual Christmas Party comprises the highlight of the year's events. Girls' League

No matter how fondly the masculine alumni of Brookline High School look back upon their days at Greenough Street, one detail will always be missing. This experience belongs exclusively to the girls, and is called the Girls' League. This organization is, perhaps, the most powerful and all inclusive clan in the High School. The League annually sponsors acquaintance parties, teas, and other social events. The Christmas workshop, the annual formal, and the supper party are other League-sponsored projects. In addition to social events, the Girls' League offers grand opportunities for girls to widen their interests and abilities in many fields. Vocational talks, trips, and various forms of social work provide a means of entertainment and education. The Girls' League always conjures up fond memories in the minds of the graduates, and stands as a memento of happy days at BHS.

Jazz Society

"Now listen closely to "Dodds' Obligato Behind Louis" on this next side," someone said to the Proper Bostonian as he passed the Music Room door. Overcome by curiosity, he entered the room. President Don Bennett turned away from the turntable long enough to greet Mr. Bostonian, as the blast of a trumpet permeated the room. In answer to his questions, Don told Mr. B. that the Jazz Society's purpose is to educate interested students in the various forms of jazz. Individual musicians, their musical ideas, and their influence on the evolution of jazz are discussed. There is also a series of discussions planned covering each instrument that comprises a jazz band. As he left, it seemed clear to Mr. Bostonian that the Jazz Society is doing a wonderful job in bringing this, the newest of the arts, to BHS.

Latin Club

"The glory that was Greece, and the grandeur that was Rome" holds a special enchantment for a select few at Brookline High School. The Latin Club, one of the newest and most original groups in the high school, provides an opportunity for the culturally-minded to study the traditions and language of ancient Rome. The members of the Latin Club participate in games, plays, and discuss various aspects of this classical language and the background and life of the Romans.

The enjoyment and appreciation of Latin, which the members derive from this club, just go to show what a group of actively-interested students can do.

Yearning for learning

Library Aides

Quick, it's 8:28 and I need to renew this book! Where's the librarian?" Not the librarian, but a student came to the Proper Bostonian's aid, and he was surprised to see the efficient way in which the student performed the necessary procedure. Later that day, a girl came into a class room to deliver some passes. At this point he decided to investigate, for his curiosity was aroused. He returned to the library and discovered that these people were members of the Library Staff. In addition to the above mentioned duties, members of the staff help keep the library in order by shelving books and making out overdue notices. This year they had a book fair which was a huge success, and was open to the whole town. They also held a Christmas party for members only. We rarely realize their efficient work, although we are constantly benefiting from it.

Literary Society

"Reading and writing and 'rithmetic, taught to the tune of the hickory stick." The Literary Society takes care of the reading and writing part of this verse so enjoyably that it has no need of recourse to the "stick".

Although the Readers' and Writers' Groups hold separate meetings, they often meet jointly to have outstanding speakers from noted magazines or from the town library. The annual accomplishments of this club is "Literary Leaves," a collection of poems, articles, and stories written by the students.

At the Readers' Group's meetings, discussion of books of past and present days are held. The Writers' Group meets to read aloud the original works of its members for criticism and correction.

Sound like fun? It certainly is! No one has to beat the Literary Society members with a hickory stick—they love what they're doing.

Lunchroom Staff

"Ring the bells, sound the gong, soup's on again!" Although this cry is never uttered by the competent lunchroom staff of BHS, they should receive recognition for the important services they render. Every day, between the hours of 11:20 and 12:50, delicious and appetizing meals are served to the starved students and famished faculty. Mrs. Latimer, Miss Cronin, and twenty boys and girls constitute the spotless staff that doles out the dishes, cleans the counters, and piles the plates. Four lunches are served daily by the staff with a maximum of efficiency. As an extra treat, the doors of the lunchroom are left open after 1:30 to those who did not quite satisfy their appetites at lunch and now desire an additional "snack".

Mathematics Society

"Wow, what a figure! Boy, look at those curves! Heh what a line!" No, the preceding does not describe a scene taking place outside the corner drugstore, in front of the high school, or at Coolidge Corner. It is the monthly meeting of the Math Society, and the topic being discussed is the "graphing of a parabola."

The Mathematics Society, formed by students interested in the mechanics and application of higher mathematics, provides an excellent chance for further arithmetical experimentation. The Society stimulates the participation of its members by presenting speakers of merit, and by planning trips to institutions where math is studied.

For those who look upon the subject of mathematics with distaste and despair, it is advisable to steer clear of this organization. For those, however, who understand the study of lines, angles and curves, the Society is a must.

Music Society

"Music hath charms that soothes the savage breast." Although the preceding was not meant to imply that we of BHS are savage beasts, the statement is true in part. In fact, the great enchantment that music has for so many students has led to the creation of the Music Society. Thursday afternoons the Music Society meets to enjoy the various aspects of melody. Selections from musical comedies and operettas often constitute the main part of the meeting. The Music Society also takes an active part in sponsoring concerts, operettas, and other musical events. Distinguished guests are invited throughout the year to speak at meetings. For those who speak the universal language of music, whether their accents be on or off-key, the Music Society is an interpreter for both the suppressed and expressed desires of music lovers.

Orchestra

Everyone has heard of the New York Philharmonic, everyone has heard of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and everyone has heard of the BHS Orchestra. Mr. Joslin, easily as famous as Koussevitsky or Toscanini, reigns over the "pit and podium" during assemblies, graduations, Dramatic Society productions, and the annual J. Murray Kay Prize Speaking Contest. This group of long-hairs joins the Band Orpheus Ensemble, Choral Society, and Vocal Ensemble each year to give an all school concert. Among the Orchestra's claims to fame is the fact that several of its protegées received high awards at the Weymouth Music Festival, and many displayed genius at the Southeastern Massachusetts Music Educational Association and at the Music Festival at Middleborough. So let's trumpet a fanfare for the Orchestra which has done so much to aid music minded students and to give them training and encouragement.

Orpheus Ensemble

"But this is Senior Award night! Won't you have an extra-special musical group before the presentations?" asked Mr. Bostonian, irritably. Sorry, Mr. Bostonian, but the BHS Music Department is a jump ahead of you. Haven't you heard of the Orpheus Ensemble? They're the small, elite group that actually outplays the Orchestra. You see, each year only the cream of the musical crop of BHS may have a chance to become members of the Orpheus Ensemble. Boy! Can those musical geniuses ever make the music sound better than when it was written!

At the fourth Eastern Massachusetts Music Festival, in fact at any place where people gather to hear superb music, our Orpheus Ensemble displays its outstanding colors. They're the musical top of our BHS musicians, and they're something to be proud of!

When we get to the game we'll naturally sit in the cheering section formed by the members of this club. Do you see the publicity posters? Physics Club

Physics, the science of matter, motion, and energy, holds, locked in its chest of miracles, secrets which remain to be discovered by the industrious scientists of the future. In the Physics Club of BHS, our future scientists study, discuss, lecture, and demonstrate this science which is so prominent in our lives. The members, under the guidance of Mr. Warren, touch upon the wide range of subjects including chemical and mechanical engineering, thermodynamics, and aeronautics.

During the time prior to the Science Fair, the members can be seen in the physics lab busily engaged in preparing their projects for the competition. Their industry in all cases is rewarded by the individual knowledge gained from the work on these projects.

The Physics Club's purpose is to cover material which parallels and supplements classroom work. Its success is increased by the fact that its members are taught and stimulated by trips and activities.

Radio Club

Upon stumbling into a room filled with aspiring radio artists, Mr. Bostonian decided to find out what the whole thing was about. One friendly soul took time from his microphone, and volunteered the following information: each alternate week, the Radio Club meets to create a better understanding of the technical, dramatic, and theatrical aspects of radio for its members. Under the supervision of Mr. Meyers, the members of this group strive to gain information concerning their specific interests. Guest speakers are invited to present the students with new ideas and material with which they can work. By visiting radio and television studios the members of this organization attempt to fulfill their oratorical desires. The remaining meetings are spent working on radio productions so that all the members may practice the knowledge which they have gained.

Red Cross

"It is more blessed to give, than to receive," exemplifies the spirit and accomplishments of the Junior Red Cross. An active branch of this fine service functions successfully at Brookline High School. With Robert Freedman taking the initiative as student representative, and with the assistance of conscientious homeroom representatives, the Junior Red Cross occupies an important niche in school activities. The collection of money for worthy causes and the assembling of gift boxes for needy children of foreign lands are two of its yearly accomplishments. In addition, the Junior Red Cross carries on other helpful projects such as aiding workers in blood donor centers. The Junior Red Cross constitutes not only a means for participation in a nation-wide organization but a real chance to be of use and service to the less fortunate of the world.

Are you "in the know?" Do you know who was elected to what office, who sponsored a dance, who won the basketball game, who received a national honor, or which club has accomplished what goal? The staff of the Sagamore, BHS's newspaper, works to bring the entire school records of the important events and interesting personalities of the day. The Sagamore offers opportunities for aspiring artists, writers, reporters, and publishers to display their creative talents. Those interested in the business end can work as advertising agents, circulators, or as typists. Under the supervision of Miss Spaulding and Mr. Williams, twelve issues are published yearly. Special editions are sent to press for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and February vacation, announcing the new staff, and Class Day. The Sagamore, because of its high standards, enjoys and deserves a wide spread circulation among the students of Brookline High.

Ski Club

". . . and dear Lord, please send us lots and lots of snow." Thus ends every devoted Ski Clubber's prayers each night from November to March. With luck and snow, the Ski Club is able to improve their techniques and ground work at the Commonwealth Country Club where the novices and experts alike practice sliding down snowy slopes with grace and ease. At the club, members receive instruction necessary for improving their turns, take-offs, landings, and just plain sliding. If it should be a snowless season, BHS skiers try to learn these skills by watching movies and hearing lectures on various methods of snow-sliding. Ahhh! Our prayers have been answered. If you've even seen a Brookline blue blood crooking her little finger over a cup of tea, you can bet that she's a member of the Social Customs Club. Though this organization meets once monthly, the members always seem to be busy assisting in school affairs. This club, besides being in charge of ushers for all events, holds an annual dance and features a spring outing each year. Often, informative speakers are invited to address the members on subjects pertaining to social customs. Also, at festive seasons, parties are held which are of educational, as well as recreational value to the students. Stage and Electrical Staff

"Please don't shine that spotlight on me," a voice begged. Wondering if there was a criminal in our midst, we walked into a highly lighted gym one Friday night to see what the commotion was all about. Seeing a beam of light, we followed it to its source. The man behind it was Dave Goldman, Chief Electrician of the Stage and Electrical Staff. This group works together to aid the Dramatic Society productions and all other functions where props and electrical equipment are needed. Dave Evans, Stage Manager, is the man who sees that all props are handled skillfully. He is the one who gives the scenery in our plays that professional look. Truly, the Stage and Electrical Staff is an indispensable part of BHS.

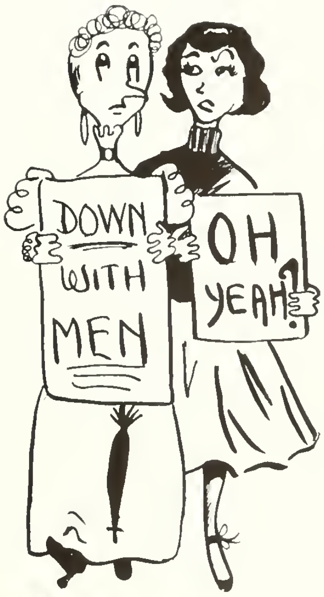
Student Forum



The Student Forum is a lively and popular organization that gives students the chance to discuss current affairs and world problems. It is not unusual to find "The Korean War" the subject of discussion one week, and "Homework or Not at BHS" the next. The first step in the discussion is an examination of the subject by a panel of students or invited speakers. The discussion is then open to the audience, which asks questions from the floor. Some members serve as ushers at meetings of the Brookline Forum, while others take part in these discussions. The Student Forum holds a freshman assembly each year to explain the extra-curricular activities available at BHS. The Student Forum provides an opportunity for freedom of speech and development of self-expression, as well as inspiring an active interest in current events in Brookline students.

Students' Manual

Can you search into the deep, dim corners of your mind and recall the ancient days when you were but a freshman? Do you remember what became of your guardian angel, your guiding light, and, for a time, your best friend? With very little exaggeration, the Student's Manual is all this to the freshman and other new students at BHS.

Peter Davis, editor-in-chief, and Stanley Komins, circulation manager, headed the staff of this year's Manual. With the aid of industrious workers, the staff was able to turn out a well organized report on the basic plans and opportunities open to students. Club activities, floor plans, and other information were included in each copy.

The Student's Manual offers a grand opportunity for all Juniors who wish to participate in the organization and editing of a handbook.

Football

We won again! Do you realize that the BHS football team won four games against three losses and one tie?

Have you any conception of the gruelling work that goes on behind those wins, the hours, the sweat, blood, and effort that our team puts into these games? Starting in the sultry heat of late August and working constantly through the season, these boys give up much time and effort in order to represent BHS at its best. No late nights and the proper diet at all times are only a few of the restrictions placed on the boys while in training. Up against the top teams in the Class A division, such as Quincy, Fitchburg, Saugus, and, of course, Newton, the BHS team upset many predictions this year, proving that you can teach an old dog new tricks.

Basketball

The Brookline five proved to be the suprise of the Suburban League this year. Not only did they run up a four-and-nothing record to astonish the member teams, but they also provided many startling upsets during the remainder of the schedule. Responsible for this tremendous surge was the determination of the boys and the know-how of the coach.

Outstanding among the team's achievements were the defeats of league-champion Arlington and tough Watertown at Watertown. Captain Jimmy Hyde's thirty point splurge in the Cambridge Latin game was also a tremendous thrill. Emphasis, however, should be placed on the fact that this year's fine record was the result of team effort rather than of individual stardom.

Prospects for next year appear bright indeed, for outstanding reserves are being groomed to replace departing stalwarts.

Baseball

"In the spring, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love"—and baseball. At Tech Field it's the latter. One can see the team there every weekday —a hard-working eager group of boys with the same determination and fight which was characteristic of this year's football team. With many returning veterans and a host of new material, the team has put on a good showing this year. Under the supervision and instruction of Mr. Fitzgerald, the Brookline High School baseball team has upheld its reputation as a state power.

Golf

"Look! It's a hole in—well almost!" Patience and determination are virtues which every promising golfer must possess along with the ability to endure the disappointments which inevitably occur. Mr. Woodlock, who coached this year's team, had a chance to select the ablest players during the annual fall tournament, which preceded the golf season. The captain of the BHS team, Bob Jantzen, playing for his fourth year on the varsity squad, exhibited his talent to full advantage against the opposition this season. Bob, in carrying through a successful schedule, was supported by two more veterans, Ed Hegarty and Bishop Tait, who also have fine records in interscholastic competition. The team had one of the hardest schedules in Massachusetts as it tangled with Newton, Waltham, and Watertown. The matches, when played at home, were contested on the Brookline Municipal Golf Course.

The Brookline Bruins

Hockey

There he goes, flashing down the ice, driving straight into the defensemen. WOW!—a clash of sticks, a grinding of skates, a splintering of ice, a sudden lurch, a swing, a thud, the red light flashes, and the crowd cheers as another goal is scored. The fans who watched Brookline's own red and blue each Saturday night this winter at the Boston Arena treated themselves to hours of sports, thrills, and enjoyment. Incidentally, two of last years stars, Jim Donovan and Art Palmer, were voted to last year's all-star team.

The competition which Brookline faced was far from being a "pushover". The teams in the Eastern Massachusetts Interscholastic Hockey League were evenly matched, and they all exhibited a lot of fight and drive on the ice. This type of play showed Brookline at its best as it tangled with stiff opposition.

Swimming

Stroke and bubble! Waters of trouble! Is it a witch brew? Far from it — just the BHS swimming team on a Tuesday afternoon at practice. This is the one team that we proudly hail as being "all wet". It is another of the athletic squads that bring honor, and are a source of pride to all the pupils in the school. This team has met and defeated many college freshman teams, which goes to prove that:

Under water as on land,
BHS is super-grand!

Cross Country Track

This squad of boys who travel "over hill and dale" every afternoon in the cool fall weather are only to be described in superlatives. The team includes those boys who enjoy running.

Our scores in cross country are almost always lower than our opponents, but don't despair. That's the way we like it, for Cross Country is scored so that the team with the least number of points wins.

In spite of the loss of Coach Tracy and many key men, Mr. Weygant has started to rebuild the team, and his success has been apparent.

Spring and Winter Track

The BHS veteran trackmen turned in fine performances in Metropolitan track-league competition this year. After two years of running second to the upper-classmen, the promising under-classmen of '50 finally realized their ambition of track stardom. The bright spot in this year's season was the continual herculean achievements of star performers. Although the team lacked depth, each meet was bitterly contested by the Red and Blue. In the stiffest competition, Brookline stars garnered sufficient pointage to gain a high place in each of the two major interscholastic meets of the year. In the State meet, Orff, Glick, and Day carried the load for the locals. Day, Forman, Cooper, and Glick ran up the score in the Northeastern meet.

The veterans continued to carry the team in spring competition. Coach Weygant spread his talent so that Brookline showed strength in each event. As the scores show, every meet was close and hard fought.

Tennis

With the close of the annual fall tournament, the Brookline High School tennis squad took on definite shape. Captain Herb Ginsberg held the number one position, closely followed by Bill Gruber. With Dick Steinberg, Fred Traub, Nason Snyder, Dick Bertman, and Arnie Aronoff. They comprised the first team. Cambridge High and Latin, Newton, Saint Marks, Milton Academy, Belmont, Winchester, and Tabor Academy made the schedule a rugged one for our raqueteers. The squad also was among the participants in the State Meet at Newton.

Girls' Sports

More fun than any three-ring circus is the three-seasoned girls' sports program, directed by Mrs. Brusko and Miss Kelley. In the far ring representing the fall, we find hockey, tennis, and riding. In the center of the arena, we see girls taking part in basketball, team games, and gym team. In a third ring entitled spring, girls are participating in tennis, golf, softball, riding, and archery. Scattered throughout all three rings are swimmers and dancers.

One of the reasons for the increased activity in the circus of BHS's girls' sports is the wonderful gym in the North Wing, where much of this is centered. Members of all four houses are on the popularity bandwagon for the outstanding BHS girls' sports program.

HOUSES

Lincoln House

Full of Fun Freshman! Simply Sizzling Sophomores! Just "George" Juniors!—Why it's Lincoln House and none other! Blessed with an interested and active housemaster and assistant housemaster, Lincoln House finds that it leads the school in participation and interest in elections. In every activity you can find happy and helpful Lincoln members leading the way. In both its freshman and sophomore years, Lincoln House had participants in varsity sports and Prize Speaking. The house reached full maturity in high school affairs with the sponsoring of the ultra-successful Record Hop, the first of its kind. With this background of accomplishments, there seems no doubt that Lincoln House will be Such Superb Seniors!

Akers House

The incoming juniors can proudly wave their blue and gold banner. Akers House has made a record to be envied this year! Under the able leadership of their president, Peter Van, they sponsored the highly successful All School Valentine's Dance. In the past year Akers House members have become ardent Guidance seekers and are therefore well on their way to choosing their careers. They already have chosen representatives for the Ring and Pin Committee, and are now selecting their class design. The boys are strong contenders for sports honors, and the girls have an enviable record of accomplishments in the Girls' League activities. These students definitely will take an active part in running BHS as they become upperclassmen. The faculty members must not be forgotten in connection with this exceptional group, for they have served as incentives as well as helpful guides.

Packard House

Despite the fact that the Freshman class is being told to "take the elevator to the fifth floor," or to "go to the Manual Training Building for gym," they always seem to make an enviable niche for themselves in Brookline High School society. Packard House, class of 1955, is no exception. Under the leadership of Dr. Rodeheaver, their housemaster, and Miss Douglass, the assistant housemaster, Packard House has become well known. A dance was sponsored by the pupils taking Human Relations, and the Human Relations Council was formed, with one representative from each of the thirteen home rooms. A Parent's Night, which helped to improve parent-teacher relationships, was held on October 5.

Packard House has proved to be an original class. It has hopeful prospects for adding to the glory of BHS during future years.

Note: Since this list was compiled many more universities and colleges have been founded including schools of Theology, Technology, Music, Art, Commerce, etc.. Institutions of learning abound in N.E. especially in and near BOSTON. There are also several excellent schools located in the WEST.

The West

Western cities are reputed to be modern and progressive. The Pacific Coast seaports have advanced rapidly,- especially since the opening of the PANAMA CANAL

Dayton, Kansas City, Toledo, Helena, Tulsa, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, and other such cities are located in this territory.

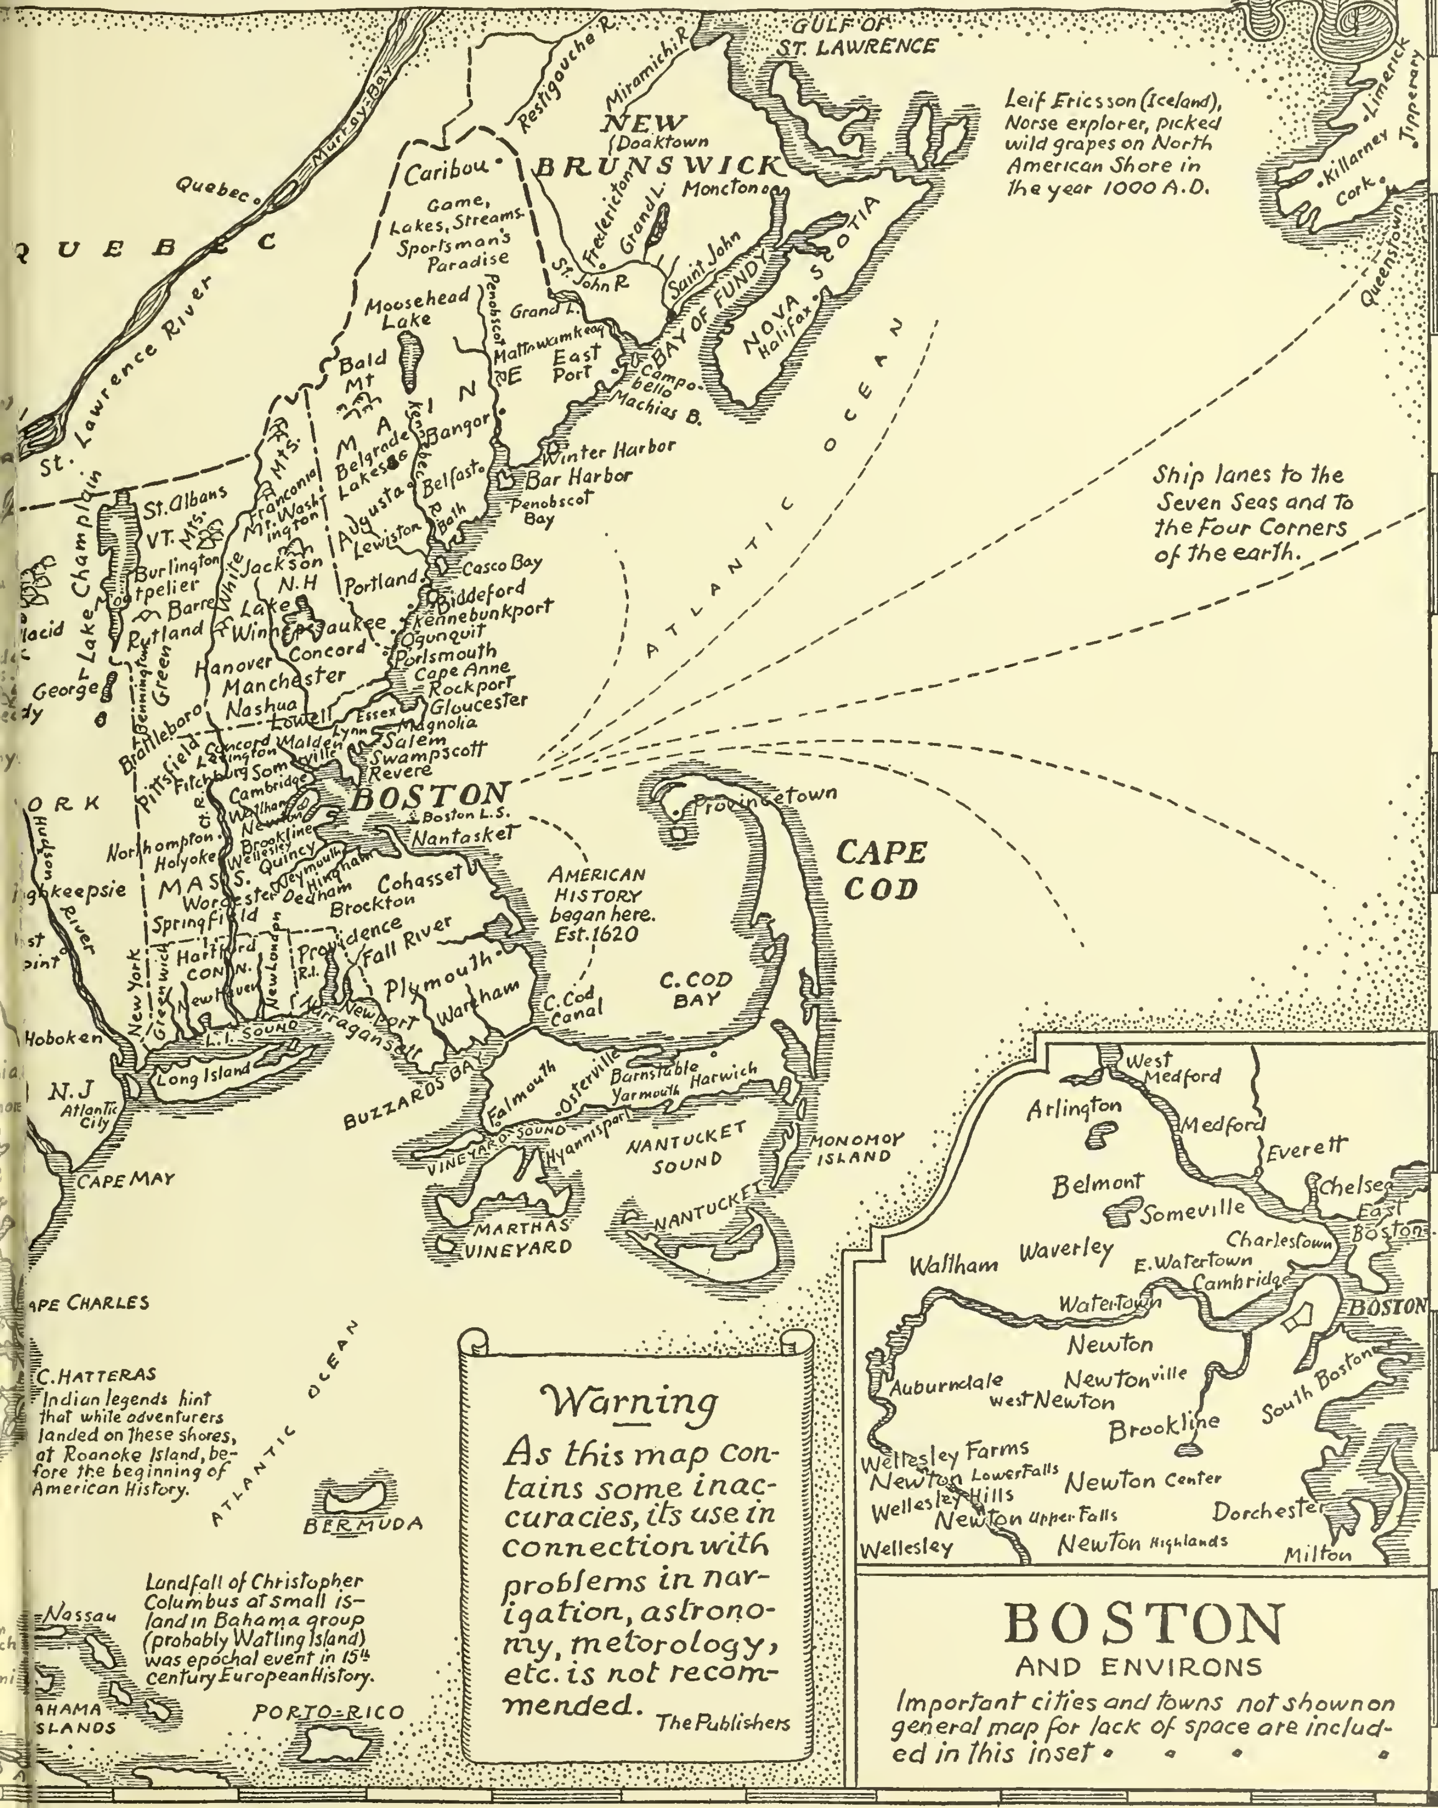
The ideas held by many BOSTONIANS concerning The UNITED STATES have been gathered, evaluated, weighted, and combined. This map, a composite of these ideas, is the result ✓ • • • •



Leif Ericsson (Iceland), Norse explorer, picked wild grapes on North American Shore in the year 1000 A.D.

Ship lanes to the Seven Seas and to the Four Corners of the earth.

Indian legends hint that while adventurers landed on these shores, at Roanoke Island, before the beginning of American History.

Landfall of Christopher Columbus at small island in Bahama group (probably Watling Island) was epochal event in 15th century European History.

Warning

As this map contains some inaccuracies, its use in connection with problems in navigation, astronomy, metorology, etc. is not recommended.
